

An Appreciated Employee Will Always Do More Than Expected

Ryan Garratt

An Appreciated Employee Will Always Do More Than Expected

They do not give employees recognition, appreciation, opportunities to grow, and do not trust them with new responsibilities.

They forget that loyal employees are their best asset

My new boss called me into her office and asked to close the door.

I thought that I was in trouble....but she surprised me!

She said: "I just want to thank you for all the good work. We are fortunate to have you as part of the team."

I replied "But I did not do anything special yet, I just started a week ago."

She said: "Being part of the team and taking up an important responsibility is enough for me. You took a big load off my shoulders."

All these years later, I never forgot that lesson...

Somehow, this is lost on many bosses – that people need to feel appreciated.

"Small" things like that are so huge.

Nothing costs so little and is valued so much as appreciation and gratitude.

"Take time to appreciate employees, and they will reciprocate in a thousand ways." Bob Nelson

What do you think?

Other popular articles & ebooks

Identifying Emotional Intelligence In Hiring \(And Why It Matters\)

Your most important assets aren't your clients...it's your employees...